SRCS President Message

The need calls for adaption with circumstances and changes in order to realize sustainability on the long range, to set a strategy upon which humanitarian works are built, and based on that, SRCS set the strategic plan 2020 -2030, which will be the main directive tool for SRCS during the coming years, in order to deal with the challenges that encounter the humanitarian work, and to realize our vision so as to remain "the leading national society" in the humanitarian work in Sudan.

SRCS, as an auxiliary role to the state, aims at completing the efforts exerted by the state, by prevention and reducing the suffering of needy persons and communities that are difficult to access, escorting the change of the humanitarian priorities and challenges and the needs continuously increasing. And with taking the humanitarian necessities in consideration, the current strategy focus particularly on the development of local communities, structural sustainability and the perseverance of communities and enable them to reach peace and well-being, where these communities develop under all circumstances.

This strategy is built on national, regional and international strategies, and therefore, it will not only help SRCS in its attempts to realize its goals, but it will participate in realizing the comprehensive developmental goals of Sudan.

And on behalf of SRCS govering governing body, I would like to seize this opportunity to congratulate all those involved and exerted their dedicative efforts to lay out the document of the strategic plan 2018-2030, and we look forward to the active participation from all governing governing and executive bodies, state branches, administrations, program/projects, youth, volunteers, international movement partners and UN agencies, and we look forward to the support of government, NGOs, individuals and public people, in order to achieve effectively and timely this strategy, so as to reach the higher interest and final benefit for the persons who are in need for assistance more than the others.

Introduction

Who are we

SRCS is the first voluntary national society working in Sudan, and which works as an auxiliary body for the government in the humanitarian work and in a wide geographical range to cover the whole country through its branches (currently 18 branches) in the states.

The Sudanese Red Crescent Society (SRCS) was established by the cabinet of Ministers decision No. 869 of its meeting on 3 April 1956 as voluntary association Society aimed at alleviating suffering and strengthening the capacities of vulnerable groups in community. And in the same meeting the government agreed to sign Geneva treaties issued on 9th, August, 1949 and SRCS became a member in the International Movement of the Red Cross and Red Crescent on 19th, October, 1957.

SRCS is considered as an establishing member of the General Secretariat of the Arab Red Crescent societies in Jeddah. And on 29 June 2010 SRCS law was approved by the National Assembly (Parliament), in its session no. (8) of its 1st meeting round, which presented the strong legal base for SRCS to operate first aids, response to emergencies and health interventions.

SRCS remains since its establishment in 1956 working in the field of voluntary humanitarian work, taking into consideration the solidarity values of the Sudanese community, that resulted from the educational and cultural values, customs and traditions controlling the movement of the society, basing on the principles of the International Movement of the Red Cross and Red Crescent and the reflections of humanitarian voluntary work culture. SRCS is known by the community with its humanitarian role serving the community during the previous periods, the thing that acquired SRCS wide experiences in the field of relief and emergency. This is usually conducted in a close cooperation between the national and international organizations, as well as its role with the relevant governmental bodies. SRCS extended its external partnerships the thing that led to creation of strong cooperation relations with its counterparts in the international movement, UN agencies, the other societies, local, and regional and International NGOs.

The Fundamental Principles of the International Movement of the Red Cross and Red Crescent

Humanitarian:

The International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, born of a desire to bring assistance without discrimination to the wounded on the battlefield, endeavours, in its international and national capacity, to prevent and alleviate human suffering wherever it may be found. Its purpose is to protect life and health and to ensure respect for the human being. It promotes mutual understanding, friendship, cooperation and lasting peace amongst all peoples.

Impartiality: It makes no discrimination as to nationality, race, religious beliefs, class or political opinions. It endeavours to relieve the suffering of individuals, being guided solely by their needs, and to give priority to the most urgent cases of distress.

Neutrality: In order to continue to enjoy the confidence of all, the Movement may not take sides in hostilities or engage at any time in controversies of a political, racial, religious or ideological nature.

Independence: The Movement is independent. The National Societies, while auxiliaries in the humanitarian services of their governments and subject to the laws of their respective countries, must always maintain their autonomy so that they may be able at all times to act in accordance with the principles of the Movement.

Voluntary service It is a voluntary relief movement not prompted in any manner by desire for gain.

Unity: There can be only one Red Cross or one Red Crescent Society in any one country. It must be open to all. It must carry on its humanitarian work throughout its territory.

Internationality: The International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, in which all Societies have equal status and share equal responsibilities and duties in helping each other, is worldwide.

- SRCS has faced during the strategy period, the lack of understanding of its auxiliary role to the government and the promoting to the stability of SRCS within the self and governmental support and non-depending totally on donors to run its activities. The economic blockade impact was clear in late arrival external support which coincided with increasing inflation rates. As well as the changes in the international humanitarian situation that led to decrease of the external support, whereas Sudan is no longer priority in support by the donors.

Therefore, it was a must to include these considerations as principles and main guidelines in SRCS strategy, and the projects that emerged from the strategy must follow these guides, in order to realize these purposes.

3. Sustainable development goals 2030:

Sustainable development goals include seventeen goals and cover all development aspects that countries attempt to apply by its commitment with the proclamation issued by the general assembly, on the 25th of September 2015. Some of these goals, related directly to SRCS field of work, and those are the ones must be focused on in SRCS strategy, and they are:

The 3rd goal: Good health & well-being: The concept of good health gathered with well-being, with the consideration that good health is the base for production, well-being and development. The 4th goal: Good education: In good education, health education, professional safety is there, and all these are in SRCS work range and they must be included in its strategy.

The 5th goal: Gender equality: This principle is also included in the seventh principles of the international Federation of the Red Crescent and Red Cross and it has been included in SRCS principles and policies of its work.

The 8th goal: Appropriate work and development of economy: SRCS has a good register of developmental projects, and the work in this range must continue in order to develop the local communities and to enable it economically.

The 12th goal: Liable production and consumption: Sustainability is considered as the main criteria on which the goals of sustainable development are based, and therefore, clear indicators must be applied within the strategy, if it is the sustainability in human capital, within the strategy of volunteering development, or sustainability in the use of SRCS's resources and abilities.

(13th, 14th, 15th) Goals: All of them related to environment, observing the environmental balance and vital diversity. This should be a main criterion for measuring the projects carried by SRCS.

The 17th goal: Making partnership for realizing goals: SRCS cares for its permanent partnerships, but the base of partnerships must be extended to include all organizations and societies that work in the range of SRCS field of work. Focusing should not be on the governmental institutions only, but coordination of programs and projects must be with the civil community organizations. All these should be carried to observe the independence value SRCS follows.

1. Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction:

SENDAI frame, disaster risks reduction, 2025-2030, includes four main priorities, of which the 3rd priority is the most important, and which ensure the importance of investment in the field of disaster risks reduction, in order to increase the ability to face it – and this requires allocation of many necessary resources and projects to promote prevention against disasters mechanisms.

1.4 The guiding principles of the frame state the following:

- 1.1.4 Each State has the primary responsibility to prevent and reduce disaster risk, including through international, regional, subregional, transboundary and bilateral cooperation.
- 2.1.4 Disaster risk reduction requires that responsibilities be shared by central Governments and relevant national authorities, sectors and stakeholders, as appropriate to their national circumstances and system of governance;
- 3.1.4. Managing the risk of disasters is aimed at protecting persons and their property, health, livelihoods and productive assets, as well as cultural and environmental assets, while promoting and protecting all human rights, including the right to development;
- 4.1.4 Disaster risk reduction requires an all of society engagement and partnership. It also requires empowerment and inclusive, accessible and non discriminatory participation, paying special attention to people disproportionately affected by disasters, especially the poorest.
- 4.1.5 The development, strengthening and implementation of relevant policies, plans, practices and mechanisms need to aim at coherence, as appropriate, across sustainable development and growth, food security, health and safety, climate change and variability, environmental management and disaster risk reduction agendas. Disaster risk reduction is essential to achieve sustainable development.
- 4.1.6 While the drivers of disaster risk may be local, national, regional or global in scope, disaster risks have local and specific characteristics that must be understood for the determination of measures to reduce disaster risk:
- 4.1.7 Addressing underlying disaster risk factors through disaster risk-informed public and private investments are more cost effective than primary reliance on post disaster response and recovery, and contribute to sustainable development;
- 4.1.8 An effective and meaningful global partnership and the further strengthening of international cooperation, including the fulfilment of respective commitments of official development assistance by developed countries, are essential for effective disaster risk management;
- 4.1.9 Developing countries, in particular the least developed countries, small island developing States, landlocked developing countries and African countries, as well as middle-income and other countries facing specific disaster risk challenges need adequate, sustainable and timely provision of support, including through finance, technology transfer and capacity-building from developed countries and partners tailored to their needs and priorities, as identified by them.

SENDAI Priorities for action:

SENDAI:

SENDAI Priorities for action SENDAI are represented in four main priorities as follows:

Priority 1: Understanding disaster risk; .

Priority 2: Strengthening disaster risk governance to manage disaster risk

Priority 3: Investing in disaster risk reduction for resilience

Priority 4: Enhancing disaster preparedness for effective response, and to "Build Back Better" in recovery, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

Basing on the principles and priorities laid by SENDAI frame, focusing in SRCS strategy, must be on two basic cores: (SRCS according to its experiences and programs in reducing disasters' risks and adapting with the climate change and promoting communities' perseverance, works in the four cores of SENDAI frame)

First: Promotion of disasters' monitoring and follow-up mechanisms, by building the required structures and systems.

Second: Developing a comprehensive framework including the available tools and means for reducing disasters, according to human resources, capacities of every environment and community in Sudan and the nature of disasters' risks that encounter every community, focus investment in these means in order to ensure the sustainability in facing disasters.

5. Humanitarian summit conference in Turkey 2016:

The conference renewed its confirmation on supporting the member countries of Sudan, in the efforts exerted to face the economic and financial difficulties, and called the International community to delete the external loans of Sudan. The conference urged Sudan and South Sudan to maintain the good neighboring relationships and to attempt to solve all suspended issues peacefully, by dialogues and negotiations. The conference welcomed in this context, the decision of Sudan of opening its borders with South Sudan. The conference called the Secretariat General of Islamic Cooperation organization and the member countries to follow-up the implementation of the results of the donors' international conference of reconstruction and peace building in Darfur.

This proclamation in regard to Sudan, and which was included in the proclamation of the humanitarian summit, calls to focus on risks' management related to refugees of South Sudan, and also focus on reconstruction on Darfur states, and therefore, some of the main projects of SRCS's strategy must focus on these two main cores. In order to realize peace goals and the development that the international community is looking for.

6. The National Strategy for Childhood in Sudan:

The national strategy for childhood in Sudan is based on the principle and philosophy of the national system for child well-being. Sudan commitment in this scope is referred to Sudan endorsement on the international treaty for child rights, and that was completed by ending the institutional building developing and activating the legal frame for sake of child protection and welfare since the year 2010.

The data in which the strategy focus, indicate children less than 3 years death rates, therefore, the projects related to mother and child health should focus on group of age, and before it during pregnancy, and during delivery and after delivery. there should be focusing of health awareness and education.

The data also indicate the arising rate of deaths among nomads, and that is a result of the huge health risks surround them. Therefore, the rural projects should be focused on this group. The data in which the strategy depends, indicate the high rate disable children in the age group of 18 years, in South Darfur, North Darfur, West Darfur, Gazira and North Kurdofan. Therefore, rehabilitation programs must be directed to this group in these states, among the programs and projects of SRCS strategic plan.

Finally, the strategy calls for investment in childhood through health and education programs, the matter that studies proved the bigger output of it than the money amounts invested in it. Whereas, a modern study, carried by UNICEF in the year 2017, proved that the investment in the children of poor families has multiple returns than the investment in non-poor families. And therefore, a high rate of the strategic plan projects must be focused on investment in childhood, and particularly in the poor communities.

7. Youth National Strategy 2007-2030:

The national strategy of youth attempts to handling the most important issues and youth problems, which are represented in:

- 1.7. Alphabetic and technical illiteracy.
- 2.7. Unemployment and poverty.
- 3.7. HIV/AIDS, drugs and public health.
- 4.7. The environment
- 5.7. Wars and violence.
- 6.7. Participation and social & political integration.
- 7.7. Plundering of civilization and globalization.
- 8.7. Sports, culture and spare time.

8. HIV/AIDS, drugs and public health:

The strategy data indicates the spread of HIV/AIDS among youth in the age group from 15-45 years has reached 0.67%, as the spread rate in the countryside reached 0.33% and in the urban 1.14%, in the displacement areas reached 0.26% and in the refugees' areas is 0.27%. It seems from these statistics that the spread rate in the urban areas is high, but the spread rate in the displacement and refugees' areas is also not few, and these are limited communities and the intervention into it is easy and not complicated like the urban. Therefore, SRCS strategic projects must focus on displacement and refugees' areas, considering them as controllable disease transmitting resources, in addition to the possibility of reducing the rate in a clear and tangible manner.

According to the directives of this strategy, we have to focus on youth psychological health, particularly in wars and conflicts areas, whereas, SRCS should not neglect the psychological dimension in its projects.
